Dear Colleague,

We are pleased to announce a new journal titled the International Management Literature Review. The purpose of the journal is to help academics, scholars and practitioners to keep up-to-date with the on-going developments in the various fields of management. This journal will be launched in September 2010. The journal will publish review articles on the various areas of management (Future Studies, Human Resource Management, Organizational Behavior, Strategy, Innovation, Marketing, Social Entrepreneurship, International Business, Cross-Cultural Management, Finance, Leadership, etc.). We are proud to have a very strong editorial board representing the research community throughout the world.

The target audiences for the journal are:

1. Active researchers. We all understand that, today, to publish research in top journals most of the research time is focussed on in-depth knowledge in a specific field. This journal provides an opportunity to scan the latest developments in related fields which may provide scholars with new insights for their own research.
2. Academic teachers. This journal will help keep actively teaching academics up-to-date with the State-of-the-Art developments in the various management fields.
3. PhD students. As we all know searching for an appropriate topic for a dissertation and developing a literature review can be a long and tedious process. In the International Management Literature Review PhD students can get a quick understanding of the latest developments in all fields of management. Furthermore, dissertation supervisors and their PhD students can publish their literature reviews, an important part of every dissertation, in this journal.
4. Practitioners. Practitioners need to stay up-to-date with the the developments in the science of management. The IMLR provides a convenient access to this information. In addition, each issue will include a review of the complete work of one of the top management thinkers in the world.

We are seeking review papers in all management fields representing current research in the world. All papers will go through a double-blind review process. Our purpose is to bring developments in science from all continents together in one great journal!

Thank you very much for considering to submit your best literature reviews to the International Management Literature Review. We look forward to hearing from you.
